Phthisis is pre-eminently a wasting disease, and by exalting failing nutrition, cod liver oil being little more than a given food, a great advance was made in therapeutics. It has been found, however, that the oil does not in many cases meet the indications; for not only is nourishment needed, but the digestive power is so reduced that but little use is made of the food taken. Hence a demand both for nutritious material and also for something which will aid food suitable for assimilation. The clinical startingpoint in the history of the greater number of cases of phthisis is malnutrition, and when that is guarded against much is accomplished. Being rich in diastase, albumiiioids and phosphates according to careful analysis, it aids in digesting farinaceous food, while in itself it is a brain, nerve and muscle producer. In practice this hypothesis is sustained. A female patient in St. Lukes Hospital, aged 35, with phthisis, signs of deposit in left upper lobe, losing flesh for six months, poor appetite and night sweats, was put upon Maltine. Within a few weeks her weight was increa.sed to 121 pounds, she ate well, no night sweats, and the evidences of...
