If I say 1970 what comes to mind. For many it is a big question mark. For many more, It was smack dab in the middle of a peace movement. Long hair, beads, peace symbols, new music, and for many, marijuana. Everyone was sick of Vietnam. I had my draft card and was praying that the draft would end before I graduated school. There were some extremist who was ugly to the returning soldiers from Vietnam. Where I live, in a very small town in South Alabama, we were glad when our guys returned home. Most all were treated with smiles and welcome home. Heck, a home boy returning home was reason for a party in his or her honor. Many returned home and continued to smoke pot as a coping mechanism and was thought of as horrible drug addicts. I smoked my first joint in 1970. I loved it. This story is set in this time period and I am very familiar with my thoughts of that time. In the...
