Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Our national security depends on our ability to share the right information, with the right people, at the right time This information sharing mandate requires sustained and responsible collaboration between Federal, state, local, tribal, territorial, private sector, and foreign partners Over the last few years, we have successfully streamlined policies and processes, overcome cultural barriers, and better integrated information systems to enable information sharing Today s dynamic operating environment, however, challenges us to continue improving information sharing and safeguarding processes and capabilities While innovation has enhanced our ability to share, increased sharing has created the potential for vulnerabilities requiring strengthened safeguarding practices The 2012 National Strategy for Information Sharing and Safeguarding provides guidance for effective development, integration, and implementation of policies, processes, standards, and technologies to promote secure and responsible information sharing Our responses to these challenges must be strategic and grounded in three core principles First, in treating Information as a National Asset, we recognize departments and agencies have achieved an unprecedented ability to gather, store, and use information consistent with their missions and applicable legal authorities; correspondingly they have an obligation to make that information available to support national security missions Second, our approach recognizes Information Sharing and Safeguarding Requires Shared Risk Management. In order to build and sustain the trust required to share with one another, we must work together to identify and collectively reduce risk, rather than avoiding information loss by not sharing at all Third, the core premise Information Informs Decision making underlies all our actions and reminds us better decision making is the purpose of sharing information in the first place The Strategy focuses on achieving five goals: 1. Drive Collective...
